Dedication

GERTRUDE CHERRY

"Train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old, he will not depart from it."

As our token of appreciation to the teacher who started us on the pathway to high learning and high living and to the teacher who has helped us attain that goal, we dedicate this issue of the Arrowhead.

Class Will

We, the Seniors of '49, will the following:

Reita Rivers, to Jean Roberts her position on the school paper, her deep and tender feelings for Wise High and its inmates to Mary Ann Maggard.

Jack Andrews, his seat in the Senior class to Arlie Hubbard, his ability to pass chemistry goes to anyone who takes this subject.

Bobby Colyer, his typewriter to Garland Fuller and Billy Horne, who desire to be speed maniacs, and to any poor unfortunate soul his position on the Arrow and Arrow-head staffs.

Jeanie Kiser, her ability to get a cute boy friend like hers to Betty Mullins, her seat in Senior class to Irene Strouth, and her ability to have fun in study hall to Juanita Sturgill.

Kyle Jessee, his seat in the Senior class to Ray Robinson, and ability to pass bookkeeping to whoever isn't particular of which subject he takes.

Margie Perry, the worthwhile things that she might have left to anyone who wants them, her Latin books and notebooks to her deserving sister, Mildred.

Irma Bevins, to her twin brothers her seat in the Senior room, her civics book to any Junior who will carry it home each night, and ability to get to school on time to Jean Wheatley.

Thomas DePriest, his position as end to Ross Stallard, his good luck to escape Senior English to those who can't get along with the stuff for any reason.

Betty Gilliam, her seat in the Senior room to Joan Hall, her bookkeeping knowledge to Carma Lee O'linger and her typing speed to anyone that will undertake it.

Hazel Wheatley, her ability to Ada Jean Addison to be good to her man, and her ability to eat candy in school without being caught to "Jenny" Dotson.

Harold Hawkins, his ability to get along with Miss Brooks in civics class to Sam Ray Elam, his waves to Betty Prater, so she won't have to roll her hair every night.

Babby Varner, his ability to say "I seen" in English class to his brother, James, his ability to flirt with the girls to Douglas Proffit.

Velma Wheatley, her position on the annual staff to her sister, Jeanie, her banged-up seat in the Senior room to Mary Helen Dale, her shorthand ability to any poor soul who takes the subject.

Kathleen Varner, her speed ability in typing class to Jean Roberts, her ability to get through English class without studying to Jean Carter, and love for shorthand class to Nancy Gilliam.

Lais Ann Orr, her ability to make "95" on shorthand to Jean Roberts, and to Sam Ray Elam her "100" on spelling.

Dalores Callins, her typing ability to Billy Collins, her seat in Hensley's Cafe to Nancy Gilliam and "Little" Stevens, and her ability to behave in second period study hall to Janet Davidson.

Willie Ray Boggs, his seat in the Senior room to Billy McDilda, his "D" on department to Ray Robinsan, and his ability to make Miss Potter mad at him to Raymond Mullins.

Class Will

Douglas Lawson, his ability to make "C" on deportment to Billy McDilda, his ability to make Willie Ray mad to Flora Faye, his ability to sell candy to Raymond Mullins.

Everett Cantrell, his job as manager of the candy store to anyone who likes to argue and make excuses to Miss Barr, his position on the basketball team to Billy Gene McFall.

Estelle Salyers, her typing book and her ability to get fifty words a minute to Grace Mullins, her English book to Billy Beverley.

Nancy Scott, her ability to make failing grades under Miss Wolfe to anyone who thinks he can stand it, her position as "Most Dignified Senior of '49" to Anne Griffith.

Peggy Stallard, her seat in the Senior room to her brother, Jimmy, her position as cheerleader to Grace Mullins, and her feelings for W. H. S. to all those poor 8th and 9th graders.

Robert Bates, to anyone anything he sees fit to have anytime he sees fit to have said property.

Eula Snodgrass, her ability to get to school on time to George Roberts, to make at least five fouls in one basketball game to "Skinny" Dotson.

John McLeMore, his position as center on the basketball team to Stuart Keene, and to Patty and Howard Dean the remaining of his possessions at W. H. S.

LeRue Collins, her position as cheerleader to Thelma Jean Wheatley, Circulation Manager of the Arrow Staff to "Midge" Byrant, and her job in the office to Sue McPeek.

Ruby Breeding, her positions on the Arrow and Arrowhead to anyone who loves hard work, and grades to anyone who is willing to study every night.

Peggy Jessee, her position as Editor of the Arrowhead to Charlotte Wells, her ability to get out of class to Jean Carter, her ability to make good grades to Collottoa Beverley.

Charles Greene, his position as mimeographer to anyone who can turn a crank and likes ink.

Cleo Mullins, her place on the Arrow staff to Sarah Thompson, and her ability to get into trouble to George Roberts and Patty Miller.

Hilda Stanley, her ability to make at least passing grades in shorthand to Irene Strouth, and ability to miss the bus to Willie Hall.

Ruth Roberson, her position on Arrow staff to Jean Carter, her ability to get stuck in the mud at Glenn's Drive Inn to Betty Davis.

Class Prophecy

Dear Miss Rivers,

I feel very flattered that my fame has reached you in Wise High School. Being seventh daughter of a seventh daughter who was the seventh daughter of a seventh daughter, I do have the power to see into the future but do not often exercise it, as it can sometimes cause much unhappiness. However, because of the interesting characters which you described in your class, I have decided to see what the future holds for them.

It is the year 1959, and I see some of the happier examples of that most important of institutions, the American Home. In a sunny land called California, I see a rose covered cottage in which Mrs. Irma Salyers is listening to her neighbor, the former Miss Mary Jean Kiser of Wise, tell the latest escapade of Thomas, Jr. who wants to be a great civil engineer like his dad.

In a suburb of the teeming little metropolis of Wise, Everett Cantrell is showing his distinguished customers, Mrs. Arthur King, the former Nancy Scott, and Mrs. Kenny Wells, the former Phyllis Parsons, the best of the fine collie pups which he raises in his kennels. They are shopping for dogs for their two small boys at the suggestion of Reita Rivers, noted child psychologist, who in a recent book expressed the belief that every child should have a pet.

Not far from the Cantrell Kennels, I see the rustic home of Charles Greene, orchidist, who is entertaining an old classmate, home on leave from the Air Corps, Lieutenant Jack Andrews.

In the Coeburn Mountain residential section, I see LeRue and Lois Ann cooking dinner for their husbands, Don and Curt, and both busily making plans for the pending visit of Velma Wheatley, now Mrs. Shem Newman of New Jersey.

Dolores Collins Kinsey is living in Roanoke with her husband, a Standard Oil tycoon.

During the lunch hour rush in the business section of Wise, I see many of your classmates. Coming down the courthouse steps, there is Major Ben Dale McLemore of the Virginia State Police, who is chatting with smartly uniformed State Examiner, Ruth Rabersan. There, also, is Betty Gilliam, secretary. The manager of the new Piggly Wiggly Store, Harold Hawkins, is sending some choice meat cuts to his in-laws, the Praters.

As the High School teachers drive by on their way to lunch, I note especially Catherine Stanley, Kathleen Varner, Estelle Salyer, and Hilda Stanley. Another successful teacher, Nancy Craft, is assisting Professor Jerry Mullins at the Mountain View School.

In the more far-flung corners of the world, I see Iris Dean walking her small red-headed son along the beach in Hawaii.

Ruby Breeding is in Paris where she is being personally presented with the Nobel Prize for Literature.

In New York, the sports editor of the New York Times, Johnny McLemore is attending a major league baseball game. The Red Sox's star fielder, Willie Ray Baggs, is being ragged by Douglas Lawson in the manager's dugout.

Gene Arnold, bookkeeper from Hanaker, Virginia, is visiting engineer, Bill Elam, who was loaned to South America as part of the Good Neighbor Policy.

Class Prophecy

I see o feature in LIFE magazine on the new district ottorney of Virginia, Bob Roberts.

Peggy Jessee is Sociol Secretary for the President of the United States.

I see Hazel Wheatley making her rounds as Superintendent of the Hospital of Knoxville, Tennessee.

The nursing profession has been elevated by the dynamic personality of Cleo Mullins. Margie Perry, famed dietitian, has just completed o series of lectures on nutrition.

Bobbie Lee Varner, weolthy bonker, has just paid Kyle Jessee a fortune for his invention of a perpetuol motion motor.

Peggy Stallord has made her home town famous by being elected Miss America of 1959.

The top comedion in radio and pictures of 1959 was also o resident of Wise, Eula Snodgrass.

I see Gilbert Jacobs about to be married. However, his bride is wearing a veil and I cannot identify her.

I sincerely hope my prophecy causes no unhoppiness.

Yours truly,

Madam Tomorrow
